

New City Building Record Set During April

Permits Approach $3-Million

Palm Springs builders—among the busiest in the nation—outdid themselves during the month of April by racking the biggest single month of new construction in the city's history.

New construction in April hit an all-time high of $2,853,650, breaking two city building records and probably establishing a third.

IN ADDITION TO setting a new monthly record, the April construction total raised the year's new building evaluation to date to $6,292,876, the highest for any four-month period.

And city building department officials believe that the city is well on its way towards establishing its "biggest building year by far."

By comparison, the first four months of 1958 saw but $3,514,150 worth of construction; and the month of April, 1958, had only $559,400 worth of building activity.

CITY RECORDS show that one month of 1946 was higher, on the books then last month, but officials said this wasn't a true picture.

They pointed out that permits during that particular month hit almost $4 million, mainly because scores of individuals took out building permits in anticipation of threatened government controls on building.

Since most of these permits were never actually used, city officials feel that last month actually established a new building record.

THE BIGGEST single item listed among 181 permits issued last month was Irwin Schuman's new 950-room Riviera Hotel, which claimed a permit valued at $1,256,000.

Permits for 96 new dwellings added another $1,205,500 to the month's total.

City building department clerks also counted 35 new swimming pools, valued at $106,000. The city's total pool count now stands at 1,306—more pools per capita than any city in the world.

OTHER BUILDING permits issued last month:

Forty dwelling additions and alterations, $46,000; one apartment of four units, $27,000; one hotel addition, $16,000; two trailer additions, $3,800; three warehouse buildings, $35,000; one new commercial building—the new Indian Avenue Owl Drug Store—$150,000; and one commercial addition, $300.

United Line Set By Ministers At Paris Meet

PARIS — (UPI) — The western foreign ministers have agreed to hold a united line against Russian attempts to split the Berlin problem from an overall German settlement, informed sources said today.

The sources said Secretary of State Christian Herter and the British, French and West German foreign ministers reached their firm decision during their day and a half conference which ended Thursday.

They agreed that the "package" plan involving Berlin, Germany and general European security which they will hand Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at Geneva May 11 will be put forward as a single blueprint.

Diplomatic sources predicted Russia would make just enough concessions at Geneva to force a summit meeting later this year.

Truman Promised A Full Hearing

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman was promised a full hearing "on 10 minutes notice" today if he wants to tell the House Committee on Un-American Activities why he thinks it is the "most un-American thing in the country."

Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), miffed at Truman's criticism, said he would be happy to "make time available whenever it is convenient" for the ex-president. Truman told reporters Thursday he would appear before the committee if he had time.

TENNESSEE MATRON 'HANGS UP' ON PHONE COMPANY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — (UPI) — Southern Bell Telephone Company planned to have special ceremonies today at the home of Mrs. George W. Manning, who was to receive its 900,000th Tennessee phone.

Mrs. Manning hung up on the celebration, however.

"If there is to be any publicity, they can give the 900,000th phone to someone else," she said.

Mrs. Luce Quits as Brazil Ambassador; President Regretful But She Refuses Plea

IT'S LAW DAY in Palm Springs today, by proclamation of Mayor Frank Bogert. Attorney Robert Schlesinger, left, looks on as Mayor Bogert affixes the city seal to a proclamation setting aside May 1 as Law Day here, in conjunction with President Eisenhower's proclamation marking May 1 as "Law Day, U.S.A." The national program is designed to stress the importance of law in the American way of life while it also serves to counteract the observance of "May Day" in the Communist nations of the world, which mark the day with parades of military might. Law Day here calls attention to a government of law, as typified by the United States, as opposed to a government by force, exemplified by the Iron Curtain nations. (Desert Sun Photo)

75-Year Lease Bill Now in Committee

New Indian Land Law Introduced By D. S. Saund

A bill has been introduced in Congress which would increase the limit on leases on Indian land in Palm Springs from 50 years to 75 years, it was learned here today.

The bill was introduced on April 27 by Congressman D. S. Saund, and was referred to the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, of which Saund is a member.

THE BILL, IF passed, would allow longer term leases of lands on the Agua Caliente Indian Reservation in order to facilitate financing for development.

"The Indian Long-Term Leasing Act now limits to 50 years and I am informed that this is too short for certain types of development. My bill would amend the act to allow leases of 75 years," said Saund.

THE PROVISIONS of the bill have been approved by the Tribal Council of the Agua Caliente Tribe and the approval of the Secretary of Interior is expected.

For many years the local Indian Council and the Bureau of Indian Affairs have been endeavoring to get longer term leases approved by Congress, so that local Indian land owners could get larger and more profitable developments on the thousands of acres of undeveloped lands in Palm Springs.

DURING THE PAST year, two 30-year leases have been approved by the bureau, the Palm Springs Spa Development and the Hacienda Trailer Park development.

Congressman Saund said that he has requested the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee chairman Wayne H. Aspinall (D-Colo.) to schedule early action by the committee on the bill.

Foreign Invaders Of Panama Set Surrender Today

PANAMA CITY — (UPI) — The Organization of American States said the foreign invaders of Panama have agreed to surrender unconditionally today.

The news the rebels had agreed to surrender was telephoned to Uruguayan ambassador Julio A. LaCarte, acting council chairman of the OAS, who is in Washington, by Ambassador Fernando Lobo of Brazil, head of an OAS commission flown here to investigate the situation.

"It looks like it's all over," LaCarte told UPI in Washington.

The five-nation investigation commission in Panama will supervise the surrender of the rebel-held village of N o m b r e d e D i o s. Under the terms of the surrender, the rebels were to turn over their weapons to military observers with the OAS group.

TRAFFIC ADVISORY COMMISSION members discuss important recommendations to be presented to the City Council within the next few weeks. The commission, which meets once a month, discussed problems in highway sign location, stop signals, flooding road problems, and possible new ordinance codes dealing with automobile traffic. Pictured above, seated, are George Bond; Councilman John Wood, chairman; Chief of Police August G. Kettmann, and standing, Jack Grabner, city traffic engineer; Traffic Sgt. Robert Young, and Safety Council President Don Miller.

SUNRISE BRIDGE ASKED BY CITY'S TRAFFIC BOARD

In an attempt to solve the problem of flood waters crossing Sunrise Way and the Tahquitz flood channel, the Palm Springs Traffic Advisory Commission has called a meeting with the zone 6 County Flood Control Board to discuss building a bridge across the 100-foot channel.

The matter was one of some 15 items that came before the Traffic Commission at its monthly session yesterday.

THE COMMISSION hears information concerning road signs, traffic signals, crosswalks, "no parking" areas, and possible enforcement ordinances in the city ordinance code.

Of strong concern to the "get-it-done" commission was the relocation of signs on North Palm Canyon Drive indicating the cut-through to Indian Avenue. The sign, is not located some 150 feet from the intersection. At 45-miles-per-hour, it takes more than 150 feet to slow down and make the turn.

NEW SIGNS HAVE been ordered and will be installed some 300 feet from the intersection of Yorba Road. Other signs ordered are directional signs indicating the direction of the City Hall, Police Station, Health Center and Airport. Another matter discussed at yesterday's session was the possibility of putting up automatic signals within the city limits. Traffic Director Jack Grabner reported that signs were necessary at Indian and Ramon and Sunrise and Ramon. Other places already suggested for signals are Tamarisk and Indian and Palm Canyon and Indian.

Godfrey Given News on Cancer

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Arthur Godfrey was told today that he had a part of his left lung removed because of cancer and he received the news in "good spirits."

A spokesman for the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center said that Godfrey, 55, had come through the post-operative period satisfactorily and was wheeled from the operating room's recovery chamber to his own room at 7 a.m.

THE COMMISSION has also asked that the city clear desert brush away for a hundred feet on both the north and south side of Tipton Road at the Palm Springs Depot on Highway 111. Obstruction by the brush almost completely hides the road which is some 2 1/2 feet below the highway. Chief of Police August G. Kettmann said that the intersection was "very dangerous."

Other matters brought up before the commission included:

—A report that the city had repaired all crosswalk signs, and has ordered a dozen new ones for use on local streets;

—Recommended location of a crosswalk on Indian Avenue and Granvia Road between the Pepper Tree Inn and The Howard Manor;

—APPROVAL OF THE relocation of the crosswalk on Indian Avenue just north of Sak's new store;

—Possible laws regarding the use of electric carts on city streets

—The relocation of the driveway of the parking lot at the U. S. Post Office was recommended by See TRAFFIC, Page 3A

Montgomery Claims 'Joking' On TV Interview

LONDON — (UPI) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery returned from talks with Nikita Khrushchev today and apologized for cracks he had made about the United States before going to Moscow.

Montgomery refused to give details of his meetings with the Soviet Prime Minister and he did not indicate that his Russian trip had caused a change in his attitude toward the United States.

But he insisted that he had just been "joking" in a television interview earlier this week when he said American leadership was "rather suspect" and that American blood should be shed on the first day of any new war.

"If anything I did say in the television interview has upset them (Americans) I am deeply sorry and apologize unreservedly and will take it back," Montgomery said.

His television remarks had drawn fire from practically every British newspaper and President Eisenhower himself.

THE CAMPAIGN WAS calculated to round up gambling suspects throughout the county. The arrests made here and in Cathedral City and Desert Hot Springs were largely for "bookmaking and allied activities," officers said.

Palm Springs Police Chief August Kettmann said that one of the two Village men arrested had been a three-year resident here, the other "a relative newcomer" to the desert.

"If this type of operation were not repressed," the law enforcement official said, "persons operating such illegal activities could reap a rich harvest."

Publisher Urged Wife Resign Post

Will Not Reconsider Decision; Mission 'No Longer Possible'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce resigned today as ambassador to Brazil and declined to reconsider the decision despite President Eisenhower's urging. She won Senate confirmation to the post on Tuesday. Mrs. Luce spent about an hour with the President and emerged to meet a crowd of newsmen in the office of White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

HER HUSBAND, magazine editor Henry R. Luce, had urged her to resign as a result of her feud with Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.). In New York, Luce said he had no statement to make on his wife's resignation.

"THE PRESIDENT with regret accepted the resignation of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce as ambassador to Brazil," Hagerty announced. Hagerty then made public Mrs. Luce's letter of resignation in which she said she was convinced "that it is no longer possible for me to accomplish the mission which you have entrusted to me."

Referring to the Senate uproar over her nomination she described the Senate's 79 to 11 vote as an example of bipartisan support on foreign policy.

"BUT UNHAPPILY, in spite of the best efforts of 79 senators the climate of good will was poisoned by thousands of words of extraordinarily ugly charges against my person and of distrust of the mission I was to undertake," she wrote. "These charges were inescapably printed around the world."

She did not identify Morse by name but referred to him only as "the American author" of the charges against her.

"COMMON SENSE indicates that the good will and support which the rest of the Senate has given will not be forthcoming from the subcommittee chairman," her letter said. "A continuing harassment of my mission, with a view of making his own charges stick is the natural course the chairman would follow."

"And the sad fact is not that I, but Brazilian-American policy would be the victim."

EISENHOWER, at his news conference Wednesday, had given Mrs. Luce a warm note of confidence, and said he saw no reason why she should resign.

He said he did not think her usefulness as ambassador to Brazil had been impaired as result of her feud with Morse.

County-Wide Gambling Crackdown Nets 19; 5 Here

An all-over-county crackdown on Riverside County gambling suspects was conducted by combined state, county, and local law enforcement officers yesterday afternoon.

Palm Springs Police and County deputy sheriffs arrested two of three Palm Springs residents who were included in 26 separate Riverside County Grand Jury indictments.

ARRESTED HERE were: William Andres Pettit, 38, local hotel manager.

George Paul Randy, 43, hotel employee. A third man, whose name was not released, is being sought in an all-points bulletin.

THE LIGHTNING fast arrests, made jointly by Palm Springs Police, the Riverside County Sheriff's office, the Riverside Police Department, the Riverside District Attorney's office, and the State's Alcoholic Beverage Control department, were spread throughout the county and involved men in Riverside, San Jacinto, Hemet, Cathedral City, Soboba Hot Springs and Desert Hot Springs.

A total of 19 men were booked throughout the county, and agencies are continuing making arrests today. The Sheriff's office in Riverside said today that they had seven more Grand Jury indictments to serve.

IN CUSTODY today from outside the Palm Springs area were: Charles H. Bahner, 42, Arlington, who reportedly operated a booking agency and police said they picked up more than $1,000 in cash when they raided the operation. Jimmy Pearce, a partner in the Desert Sands Poker Casino in Cabazon.

Levy P. Muglia, 45, Riverside. Jack F. Martin, 27, Riverside. Raymond L. Hatch, 55, Riverside.

Doyle G. Riley, 30, Riverside. Lewis H. Johnson, 32, Riverside.

EUGENE J. WOMACK, 31, Riverside. Seville V. Elke, 39, Riverside. Manuel A. Piana, 49, San Jacinto.

Seren Ramos, Hemet. Carl R. Kuehn, 38, Riverside. Patrick C. Dailey, 38, Cathedral City.

Eddie Broeze, 45, Cathedral City. Victor Velez, Soboba Hot Springs.

Johnny Johnson, 33, Desert Hot Springs. DEFENDANTS were booked at local police stations, questioned and either released on $1,000 bail or taken to Riverside County Jail.

Officers were not only armed with the Grand Jury indictments, but carried search warrants with orders to seize all information and try to make contact with persons placing bets where telephones were in operation.

Paul Desmond's Humor Is Offbeat

By GEORGE LAINE
Paul Desmond finished up his own unusual version of "On the Street Where You Live" and headed off the Chi Chi Starlite Room while the crowd broke up behind him.

Later, after Day, Dawn and Dusk put the finishing touches to a dinner show in the North Palm Canyon club, the 29-year-old San Franciscan mused on the status of humor in show business today.

"THE SO-CALLED 'sick' joke' routines hurt us," he said. "I figure they're pretty much behind us now."

Desmond's own brand of humor deals markedly with certain types of adversity but that's easily explained.

"Our troubles usually provoke more mirth than the good things that happen," he said.

THE "STREET" ROUTINE is a sample of this. Desmond laments the fact that, having bought a home in a 30,000-house "look-alike" tract, he sometimes has difficulty finding his way home. The degree to which this farce is carried marks the material as one of the brightest original segments in present-day comedy circles.

"It is," Desmond sighed, wearily, "based on fact."

"I happen to live in a tract at San Mateo," he said. "Sometimes I really do have trouble finding my house."

DESMOND GOT his show biz start 10 years ago when he worked the Barbary Coast in Hollywood.

"I'd been considered kind of funny at school and I had an act that was mostly pantomime. That's what I like best—pantomime—and I did bits on Danny Kaye, Phil Harris, Mel Blanc and some others."

"I stayed in Hollywood for awhile, then went to San Francisco where I played the Rumpus Room for three years with Rusty Draper."

At the same time, he assembled pantomime shows for KPXX and KGO, a couple of Bay Area TV channels.

THE SERVICE CALLED in 1953 that's the same year Paul and Sue Desmond decided to make the act a double offstage—and Paul headed for Europe.

It wasn't long until the Army discovered the Desmond talent and he was yanked out of his outfit and deposited in the Special Services Division.

HE WON THE ALL-Army competition in Europe for 1954 and Ariene Francis brought him back to the U. S. in a special show she rigged for stateside camps. The following year, Desmond was voted the "No. 1 Comedian in the U. S. Army." Ed Sullivan swapped gag lines with Paul on his Sunday night show and the Desmond wit fell on the ears of millions.

He finished his Army tour in 1955, hastened home to Sue and the couple's two dogs.

SINCE THEN Desmond has worked with rock and rollers Jimmie Rogers and Elvis Presley and a dozen or two other singers and near-singers.

Singers have hurt the Desmond act although Paul tries to be diplomatically vague about that. Blessed with a voice that he can and does bend to every purpose—impersonations, ballads and the singers—Paul sticks mostly to comedy although he admits frankly that he intends to be "more a singer" in the future.

His work on "The Lord Loves a Laughin' Man" is an inspired thing and one of the very, very few of the very, very good new Broadway tunes—"Love, Go Away From Me" from The Flower Drum Song—is delivered with a great deal of sensitivity.

"You can't work too much on it when you're billed as a comic on a program with a singer or singers. But I'll keep at it."

You could tell with ease that the angular funnyman wasn't joking.

FAMILY PORTRAIT of the Paul Desmond clan has the funnyman surrounded by his wife, Sue, and the couple's two dogs—a boxer and a crossed dachshund-boxer. Desmond does his Chi Chi Starlite Room show without the three others, manages to keep a leap and a half ahead of anticipated gag lines. (Desert Sun Photo)

RIDE 'EM COWBOY (and cowgirl, too) is the encouraging cheer offered for Chris Cross and Sheri Ridley by their young, first grade classmates. Chris and Sheri are riding double on "Skyrocket," their home-made paper-mache horse in the corral of their "Rocking T" ranch. The "ranch," its horse, corral and bunkhouse were all made by the Cathedral City first graders and their teacher, Mrs. Marian Lance. A sturdy critter, Skyrocket is based on a saw horse, and composed of paper-mache, stuffed with waste paper. The corral is made of lumber contributed by the Dill Lumber Co. The ranch is accompanied by such educational projects as a "western store," featuring cowboy garb crafted by parents. Purpose of the ranch is to increase vocabularies and stimulate sight reading and study, according to Mrs. Lance. (Desert Sun Photo)

Highway Commission Takes Freeway Route Under Study

The California Highway Commission today took under consideration the adoption of a freeway routing for the relocation of a portion of U. S. Highway 60-70 in and east of Indio, Riverside County. This action does not include a State Sign Route 111 connection to the south where additional study will be required.

State Highway Engineer G. T. McCoy recommended a route which would run north of the Whitewater Storm Channel in Indio, then generally follow the present highway to Cactus City. Two right angle turns would be eliminated.

A PUBLIC MEETING called by the Division of Highways was held in Indio on March 4 at which the recommended route and possible alternate routes were discussed. The routing recommended is the "outer route" as discussed at the public meeting.

It extends from 0.7 mile north-west of the Indio Overhead to Cactus City, a distance of 19.2 miles.

The Commission requested McCoy to ask the Indio City Council and the Riverside County Board of Supervisors if they wish the Commission to hold a public hearing before further action is taken to adopt a freeway routing.

Plans of the Division of Highways call for the construction of a four-lane freeway on the section of highway for which a route is under consideration. Provision would be made for an ultimate six lanes. Cost of the initial four lanes, including rights of way for six lanes, is estimated at approximately $11,100,000. Start of construction would depend on the availability of future highway funds. This portion of U. S. 60-70 is on the National System of Interstate Highways.

Home Burglar Nets $1,800 in Jewelry, Coat

Palm Springs police today are continuing their investigation into the burglary of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hull at 1350 Manzanita, in which a total of $1,800 worth of jewelry, a cashmere coat and an expensive camera.

Officer Neal Green made the investigation after a gardener reported that a door at the residence had been forced open.

Green reported that Mrs. Hull came to Palm Springs with her husband and after checking the home reported several items missing including a camera, valued at $100; a double string of pearls, $500; a single string of pearls, $300; a cashmere coat with a beaver collar, $185; and an assortment of costume jewelry valued at $600.

The investigating officer said that Mrs. Hull had only the day previously stored her valuable furs and had taken all of her expensive jewelry to their Los An-

Faulty Burglar Alarm System Aids Burglars

A faulty burglary alarm system and patient burglars combined to bring off the most spectacular safe burglary since the $30,000 Plaza Jewelry store safe job three years ago.

Local police were unable to get a lead today to the men who broke into Allbright's Automotive Supply store on Indian Avenue, ripped a steel safe literally to shreds, and took out some $250 in cash.

PERSONAL CHECKS and paper were left behind scattered around the floor.

Also left behind in the safe burglary were thousands of dollars worth of tools and automobile parts that were on the shelves of the supply house.

In making entry into the building, the burglars pried the lock off the back door and pulled a wire off the alarm system.

ACCORDING TO Det. St. John Herrera, the breaking of the alarm circuit would have normally set off the burglar alarm, but in locking up the store the night before, the key was not turned completely over in the alarm system.

New tools, on the shelves of the store were used to pry open the safe. Sgt. Herrera said that the burglars first knocked out the safe dial, and when the safe would not open, they used crow bars to pry the metal off the front of the safe.

THE BURGLARY brought to mind a similar "safe job" at Cathedral City a year ago. The same modis-operandi was used and that safe too was completely mutilated.

New Building Should Conform To Palm Springs Tradition

Establishment of an architectural board to supervise and regulate new construction as proposed in preliminary discussions by the City Council would constitute an important step towards the preservation of Palm Springs reputation as a community of rare charm and distinctive attractiveness in both the business and residential areas.

One need only to look at such communities as Carmel, Santa Barbara, Laguna, Scottsdale and other outstanding examples of co-operative control in direction of design and construction to observe the splendid and lasting benefits of architectural regulation in ultimate achievement.

Palm Springs is fortunate in having made an exceptionally good start over the years, but with the ever increasing volume of new building the problems of continuing conformity and compatibility in new construction in various areas of the far flung City limits is becoming more important and complicated.

While growth statistics are highly gratifying, it is also necessary to keep a careful eye on maintaining a pleasing overall effect with due consideration to enhancing rather than detracting from our already established architectural attractiveness, and above all to avoid slipping into commonplace mediocrity.

As has been frequently pointed out, due to the high, sheer and protective mountains on the one side, and the open desert on the other, Palm Springs has a comparatively confined although most desirable area in which to expand, the situation being similar to limited sections of beach frontage and other choice sectors.

It is therefore doubly imperative that we make the most of what we have left available for development, not only for the needs of today, but also for the enjoyment of everyone who comes to Palm Springs in the golden years which lie ahead.

Bipeds With Brains

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The U. S. Senate did itself proud. To put the matter succinctly: it changed its mind. This was done despite some weekend revisions by refusing to accept the Labor reform bill which came from the Kennedy Subcommittee and by rewriting this bill on the Senate floor.

The rewriting was mainly done in the fiery script of that redoubtable man, John McClellan of Camden, Arkansas — soldier, small-town lawyer, passionate advocate, patient listener and incontinent personality who glows only when he turns on the lamp of his genius.

McClellan could not have done it alone. He had good men, North and South, who backed him up. This was to be expected. But unexpectedly, McClellan also had the intangible asset of receptive minds, of minds susceptible to knowledge and conviction. As many as a dozen Labor-minded Senators came there to vote like robots, but remained to legislate like bipeds blessed with brains.

For example, all three of the Republican freshmen, each an avowed "modern"—Scott, Keating and Prouty—supported McClellan and voted with the conservative coalition of Southern Democrats and Old Guard Republicans. A freshman Democrat, Dodd of Connecticut, decided to think this one out for himself. Equally surprising, Case of New Jersey, who is up for reelection next year, gave the back of his hand to the Labor bosses.

McClellan's stirring orchestration of eloquence — from rhetoric to humor, to irony, to bombast, to pathos — had the astonishing effect of uniting these self-styled liberals on the roll calls with such right-wing stalwarts as Bridges, Lausche, Tamm and Thurmond.

Not all Modern Republicans went over to McClellan, and not all Southern Democrats stayed with him. Alabama's Labor-minded pair, Hill and Sparkman, voted against the Arkansas law. The most theatrical example of soul-searching — and perhaps of muscle-bound thinking — was supplied by Modern Republican Jacob Javits. This is the pertinent dialogue:

JAVITS: "MR. President . . . the Senator from Arkansas . . . has put us everlastingly in his debt . . . It would be very easy to vote for his amendment . . . However, I cannot do so as a lawyer."

McClellan, looking first at Kennedy and then at Javits: " . . . let me say that never before have I heard so ridiculous an argument by one who has so much intelligence."

Javits: "I cannot vote for it because my conscience will not permit me to do so."

McClellan: "THE distinguished Senator from New York said he could not vote for the amendment because his conscience would not let him do so. What is bothering his conscience, Mr. President? When we propose . . . union members . . . be given a right to have their case heard by an impartial person or persons, the Senator from New York says his conscience will not let him . . ."

For the most part, however, the debate was carried on in good humor by all parties. Senator Kennedy, whose political fortunes are very much at stake, kept his Irish temper under some ragging. He gave a good account of his knowledge in the intricate field of Labor law.

HE POSSIBLY gained some good will among his colleagues and in the press gallery, but he did not "deliver" for the Labor bosses who will obviously be sorely harassed by the McClellan bill of rights for union members. The American public now has a chance to judge Senator Kennedy on something other than his glamour. In summarizing his opposition to the McClellan bill of rights, Kennedy took these positions:

1. Against publishing the membership lists of unions. "I think it is highly unfair and unreasonable (to union leadership), in order to protect the rights of members, to provide that the lists of 15 million union members shall be made public. In the (Kennedy) bill we protect this basic principle by . . . election . . . We also provide the rights of the union (leadership) to preserve its list inviolate."

2. AGAINST OVERPROTECTION of union members from disciplinary action by their leaders. "It seems to be that we can trust union officers to run their affairs better than that."

3. Against any further Federal interference in union leadership matters. "The Federal Government (is) reaching its hands into the disciplinary action of a union and doing so in a completely unnecessary way."

4. Against giving the Attorney General power to act for union members. "I think any member of the Senate who voted for jury-trial rights (in the Civil Rights bill of 1957) would find it difficult to vote for . . . the (McClellan) amendment."

NEW BOOKS

St John Details Story of 'Ben-Gurion'

Ben-Gurion, by Robert St. John. 336 pages. Doubleday, N.Y., $3.95.

As in "Shalom Means Peace," Robert St. John has pitched a new curve for the "scan-reader" cliques. Read this book in passing and you'll not be reading it at all.

That as it would turn out, would be your disadvantage. This is a warm sensitive appraisal of the Russian-born Jew who, motivated by determination, helped carve the framework of a free Israel.

It is more than that, however. It is a careful criticism of the man that sets forth his policies as well as his strength.

BEN-GURION'S explosiveness, his inability to remain calm in situations that are close to him, is searchingly explored by St. John. No reader can follow St. John over more than a few pages of the book without becoming thoroughly aware of the Ben-Gurion temperament.

There are some shocks in the book, particularly for Americans. The Gulf that separated Ben-Gurion and Israel's President Chaim Weizmann have been told and retold many times and yet some of the incidents that St. John sets forth give new and sometimes unbelievable information regarding the Gulf.

American Jewry will perhaps be unhappy with the frank and candid account of Ben-Gurion prior to World War I. It would appear that he still feels it in his references to the "self-satisfied, bourgeois attitude" of his fellow Jews whom he accused of having "brought to the New World the worst instead of the best of their cultural background."

"HE FOUND Hebrew an almost unknown language in America," St. John relates, "outside the synagogues. These New World Jews seemed as reluctant to abandon Yiddish as a man might be to get rid of an old pair of shoes which were comfortable but worn out."

The lack of unity among America's Jewry also appalled Ben-Gurion.

This isn't the theme of the book but it is an important insight to Ben-Gurion's lack of patience with those who know the right, yet fail to act it. Because of this pronounced lack of patience, Ben-Gurion was, and is probably will be driven more and more to his "kibbutzniks" and more and more away from what he feels is the artificiality of the prominent or would-be prominent in world Jewry.

ANOTHER MOMENT of deepest insight is delivered when St. John details the conversation between Ben-Gurion and Mary Calow, a non-Jewish English nurse with whom his son Amos had fallen in love. I shall not detail this incident other than to say that it bears minute testimony to the breadth of the Ben-Gurion scope.

In fact, I don't think I should like to go more into this well-written book here. It is a deeply emotional story that St. John sets forth — the fruition of the dream of an independent Israel, the assassination attempt, these and a hundred more (and more than that even)—in this book.

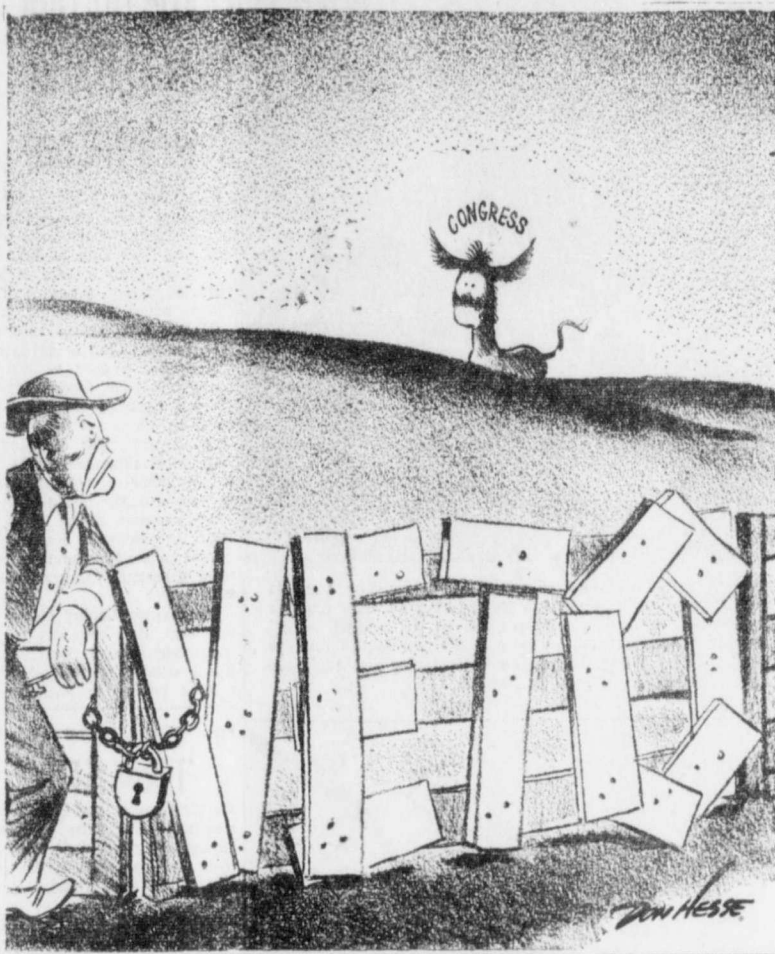

It is a story that can enhance the philosophy, widen the scope, and influence the life of anyone who cares to read into it the Ben-Gurion who is Israel.

Keeping Him in the Old Corral

This Side of The Sun

By Phat

Ah, May, the month of Great delight, Warm in daytime, So nice at night.

If you don't believe it, stick around and see for yourself.

FIRST OFF, I would like to reply to a note criticizing some remarks made in one of these compositions recently.

No, lady, I am not an old crab who hates children. When I refer to them as Little Monsters and credit them with spending much time thinking up fiendish tricks, it is not in a disparaging sense.

I have four grandsons, all of whom I love, and I love the little dears who pitter-patter around my friends' houses.

SO WHEN I SAID that daylight time would give them too much opportunity to think up ways to annoy their elders, it was meant in an admiring, affectionate sort of way.

Just like, lady, when people come up to me and say: "Hi, you old bum," I do not take it to mean that I am aged or a snide reflection on my habits.

I like it because I think they like me.

I HOPE that clears things up, Madame.

I love the Little Monsters and I admire the way they can dream up fiendish things.

And I won't be disturbed if you call me an Old Bum.

IS PALM SPRINGS going to the dogs?

Another communication this week had to do with the nocturnal canine chorus.

Harvey Parker of Palm Springs Trailer Village, writes in to protest the nightly serenade of "mutts. Large ones with deep bass voices, small ones with high-keyed yips, hour after hour, night after night."

MR. PARKER says he is taking off next weekend for the hills where there are only one hundred dogs instead of one thousand. He says he needs his sleep.

"They call this the doggondest city."

"When it is the dog-gone-dest city, I shall return."

MRS. DOROTHY WINKLER, long-time Village resident and a cycle enthusiast, joins me in the belief that the city should provide bicycle paths for the people who enjoy that healthful exercise.

Cycling was once a top pastime here but, what with the heavy traffic, there's hardly a place to ride these days.

She thinks that when the city puts Tahquitz Drive through to the Civic Center, provision should be made for a bike path, too.

Well, that's logical. It's on the level and easy to pedal.

SHE HAS another idea. With the building of the city offices out McCallum Way, the police center and the centralization of civic affairs there, it's going to be an important place.

But how to get there? Not everyone has private transportation at their disposal. How about public transportation to the Civic Center? she asks.

STAN DELAPLANE'S Postcard

Well, the other day I drove down to Charleston, Ill. It seemed smaller than when I was a boy. But things have changed all over.

When I was a boy we went down to great-grandfather's farm.

It had a barn that contained all the treasures of the world. There was a hay loft and a corn crib and you could get the fresh eggs out from under the chickens. Boy!

WHEN OUR COUSIN BILL milked, there was a dog stood right in the barn door with his mouth open. Bill would aim at the dog's mouth and squirt milk into it.

A few cats hung around meowing. If he squirted milk at them, they stood on their hind legs and caught it as pretty as you please.

MY COUSIN Tom and I went over by the farm the other day. It is owned by people named Baggot. While we were wandering around the front yard, Mrs. Baggot came out and said she but we were looking for the front porch.

We were. That is the way we remembered it. "We took it off and put a window in where the door was," she said. So we WERE right.

GRANDFATHER USED to sit out on the porch. Some of the family showed me some pictures the other day. I am glad to say he looked just as I remember. A white-bearded old gentleman with a wide-brimmed hat.

He looked just like what he was. An elderly pioneer. When grandpa was 23 years old he came right through here with six mules, eight oxen and four cows. He was on his way to the gold fields of California.

"WE PASSED through the little town of Charleston, Coles county, Illinois, and camped the fourth night in Dead Man's Grove," he wrote. "Only one house in the grove then, no others in sight; open prairie in all directions."

"Mattoon was neither laid nor hatched out then. Government lands could be entered in every direction in the prairies of Illinois."

"Just for kicks, let's go in and show the anxious fathers what they're letting themselves in for! . . ."

EARL WILSON:

Poston, Steve Allen, Must Part

NEW YORK — "Hollywood's not for me just now—I'm a Broadway cat," Tom Poston said. "I dig that legit stage."

And so Steve Allen's great TV comedy trio of Tom, Louis Nye and Don Knotts comes ungilded when Steve moves his whole show to California in about five weeks, lock, stock and wife.

"Steve and Jules Green (Steve's manager) asked me—but I think my field is here," added Tom, the zany from Boston and Columbus who can never remember his name on the show.

"What if Ed Sullivan made you an offer?"

"Oh, I don't see how I could do that, out of loyalty!"

"You've got a deal with a Sullivan already!" snapped a feminine voice — that of his wife, busy TV commercialist Jean Sullivan.

Tom's on "To Tell the Truth," and stars in an off-Broadway show, "Come Play With Me." He got rave notices in "Drink To Me Only" earlier this year. And — he's recovering from a traffic accident in which he hurt his leg.

"You're a motorcyclist, aren't you?" we asked. "WAS!" he said.

"But you have a motorcycle?"

"HAD!" It was demolished. I can't ride any more after that. It's silly. But it was all right at the time. Some of us don't have expense accounts, you know!"

I had reported Tom'd been hurt riding a scooter.

"What d'ya mean, a scooter? I'm a big boy, now!" Tom said. "I was about to demand a retraction. Then I thought, 'That's pretty silly, sitting here getting mad about how I got hurt!'"

Frederick March, the two-time Oscar winner, likes to write jokes and has submitted to me in his own handwriting the following:

"What about the absent-minded fellow who, when his wife asks him where he's been for two weeks, and why he's broke, replies, 'I haven't Las Vegas idea!'"

When Gov. Rockefeller was vetoing all these bills, some wag named the State House "Chez Veto" . . . Composer Jules Styne actually cried at a 25th anniversary-in-show-Biz party for him at the Friars. M.C. Jack Carter said, "Irvine Caesar would have been here, but was hit by a car on the way over while writing a new safety song."

Uncle Hardy was generous about it. We could turn as long as we liked.

The only trouble was the ice cream got stiff and we could not turn it. Then Uncle Hardy would sigh and seize the crank himself. When the ice cream gets hard is when the hard work comes in. And I guess he was sorry we were not bigger.

We had a lot of enthusiasm. But our strength gave out when the going got tough.

IN THE KITCHEN was where they fried the chicken. It was full of aunts and grandmothers and you could not play in there. But you could SNIFF the frying chicken through the screen door.

There was a hand pump in the yard. You pumped it and it gurgled and gurgled. And then it put out a stream of the best and coldest water I have ever tasted.

The pump is gone and the people there probably do not know they are sitting on top of the world's finest water.

THE STRAWBERRY patch was down the road. Grandfather raised strawberries. You could pick them and eat them. He was an inventive man and put in the first overhead sprinkling system ever seen in Illinois. Or maybe anywhere.

He carved little airplanes out of wood and set them up like weather vanes.

There were no airplanes then — none we had ever seen, anyway. But he said just wait. Airplanes would sometime be so common they would fly right over that very house.

Tom was a Navy flier during the war. And he flew a plane right over the house. So, you see?

WHEN HE HUNG up he was so shaken up he had to go home. Set-side consensus: Tony wants to stay in Hollywood and make movies. Shell wants him as her co-star in a Broadway play. Too bad about these two nice people.

Cary Grant and Stanley Donen will co-produce Cary's next picture independently. It's a Harry Kurnitz comedy called "The Grass Is Greener" — meaning the grass on the other side of the matrimonial fence. Cary will be co-starred with the "Indiscreet" teammate, Ingrid Bergman.

"Tarzan, the Ape Man" finished shooting and Joanna (Me-Jane) Barnes sighed in relief. "I'm glad it's over — I climbed so many trees I developed a case of chronic nose-bleed!"

ANNA KASHFI Brando, Marlon's ex, is ailing. She's not torching for Marlon. It's an old kidney ailment.

Prentice-Hall is pitching Ginger Rogers to pen her biography. Suggested title: "I Won't Dance. Don't Ask Me!"

They won't let United Artists advertise Ava Gardner's "Naked Maja" with a reproduction of the original Goya painting but Pat Medina just hung an original oil painting by David Niven — a nude—in her Beverly Hills apartment. Pat calls it "The Naked Mama."

They probably could have solved it by listing the stars alphabetically but neither Debbie Reynolds nor Dean Martin would go for Tony Curtis's top-billing over them. And that's why Columbia Pictures' "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With Last Night" has been postponed.

The Bolshoi Ballet will go on TV live from Hollywood in June via Skiatron (in theaters in about 60 cities over closed-circuit, just like championship fights). It's a big coup for Skiatron Head Matty Fox who shut out their TV bidders . . . Hugh O'Brian will give a party at the Hanwyn or Miss Rheingold . . . Bernard Baruch will host Sir Winston Churchill here . . . Lee Mortimer's hospitalized and (no connection) the Hy Gardners are planning a happy announcement.

Judge Vincent Impellitteri says he may go back into politics: "It's about time I gave the city back to the people" . . . Gossip hath it that the Zeckendorf Hotel may be renamed "The Rockefeller Plaza Hotel" . . . A rich playboy in the headlines recently, let his gal pick up the tab cause it's his pappy who's loaded . . . Gene Courtney's playing Cannes and the London spot with the best salary: "No more of this prestige baloney," mutters she.

Ed Sullivan'll take 40 people to Russia for two Tvers, for he'll also put on shows nightly at the Moscow Trade Fair for 3 weeks (request of State Dept) . . . Perry Como's top writer Goodman Ace says he's made no deal to quit Perry yet, though there are offers. Denying he gets $13,000 to $15,000 a week, he says, "If I do, the FBI should get after me, because I don't declare that much."

The Casa Cugat changed its name to Casa Carib; Cugat has already left . . . Oscar nominee Cara Williams had a mole removed from her face . . . During a kissing scene with Walter Slezak in "Gazebo," a patron yelled at Jayne Meadows: "What would Steve Allen say about that!"

Andy Griffith worked off ten pounds rehearsing the "Destiny" dances . . . Comic Jules Munshin, a camera bug, is writing a photography book. The Aga Khan's phoning from Harvard to London, to socialize Pat Rawlings . . . Nick Darvas of the Darvas and Julia dance team says his Latin engagement may be his last . . . Several studios are bidding for the Milton Berle book, "Earthquake" . . . Bartstone Earl Wrightson makes his film bow this summer in a western . . . Bandleader Neal Hefti donated his trumpet to Father Flanagan's Boys Town.

Wreck of the Mary Deare" at Metro, I ran into Charlton Heston, who told me he has signed to narrate the Five Books of Moses for a Vanguard Records LP. "Gwan," I said, forgetting about Chuck's "Ten Commandment" assignment as Moses, "you never read the Bible!" But he barked the Books at me right then and there without batting an eye: "Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy, Joshua!"

Gary Cooper asked his friend Ernest Hemingway what he thought of Spencer Tracy in Leland Hayward's version of Hemingway's short novel, "The Old Man and the Sea." Papa replied with a twinkle: "Hated the movie, loved the book!"

CHANNEL CHATTER — Ricardo Montalban, just back from a long Broadway run as Lena Horne's "Jamaica" co-star, is all agog about starring in ex-movie producer Max Shane's TV series about a gambler, The Man from Las Vegas.

Eva Gabor CBSigned to do a five-minute five-a-week interview airshow that would be developed into a CBS-TVenture if it "lits tens" well. Sort of a Gabor-gabfest.

Jaye P. Morgan's week on crutches came about real crazy-like. She opened the closet in her apartment where her brother keeps his athletic gear and his bowling ball fell on her right foot.

WHO'S MORE wholesome, Patti Page or Roy Rogers? I don't know — but I do know that ABC-TV let The Kingston Trio sing "Tijuana Jail" on Patti's show without changing a word — and when it came time for the boys to sing it on Roy's Chevy Show last Sunday NBC-TV made them clean up the lyrics. The exact order from the network nabobs read: "Please make the words of this song more wholesome."

Lana Turner, looking like a real live doll, says she's all for live TV after her Dinah Shore show. "I was scared silly before AND after the show," she admitted to me, "but not, strangely enough, during it. That's the main reason I haven't done it before — no, the one I did with Bob Hope two years ago wasn't live, it was pre-filmed—but now I want to do more. I like the idea of coming on as myself, instead of in an acting role. It's worth 50 personal appearances. I had to experience it to realize what a wonderful morale-booster it can be."

PALM DESERT — At the first board meeting of the Gay Nineties committee following the spectacular success of the Spring Festival and Pink Elephant sale staged April 21 at the Shadow Mountain Club, the committee was presented with $1,000 in cash by the Palm Desert Hotel Association, sponsor of the event. In presenting the gift, Ralph Phillips, president of the Hotel Association, paid tribute to the many businesses from Indio to Cathedral City which donated their services and goods. He also expressed his appreciation and thanks to civic organizations within this community whose members sold tickets, collected items for sale, arranged the dinner and attended to the multitude of chores necessary for the success of the benefit.

"This success of our initial effort," stated Phillips, "and the community spirit shown by the tremendous turnout indicates the need for an annual get-together."

Larry Sitter, manager at O'Donnell Country Club, today announced that the 14th Annual Local Yokel golf tournament dates have been set for May 19 and 20.

This tournament, which traditionally closes the winter season at O'Donnell, has annually attracted a large entry list of desert area residents.

Another big field is expected this year, said Sitter.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Lionel Hebert, the Louisiana larder whose putting in recent months has been "the worst in my experience," led the Colonial National invitation golf tournament by a stroke today as the select field turned into the second round.

The chunky, 31-year-old member of the Hebert golfing brothers clipped three strokes off Colonial's 7,000-yard par 35 - 35 - 70 layout Thursday and it earned him a one-stroke lead over veteran Ted Kroll of Sarasota, Fla., who finished early with a 35-35-68.

The third-place 69-bracket was loaded with four players, including hot-shooting Tournament of Champions titlist Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N. Y., Houston Classic champ Jack Burke of Klamath Lake, N. Y., hometown Ben Hogan and Bill Johnston of Provo, Utah.

Four others managed to match par. They were Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif., Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Gardner Dickinson of Panama Beach, Fla.

Patterson 10-1 Over London In Title Fight

Champion Takes Big Chance in
So-Called Tune-Up

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Champion Floyd Patterson is a lopsided favorite at 10-1 to beat lantern-jawed Brian London of England tonight in perhaps the strangest heavyweight title fight ever scheduled.

Patterson and his handlers arranged this 15-round bout with the semi-exiled Britisher at the fair grounds Coliseum as a "tune-up" — a high-class workout to sharpen Floyd for his million-dollar defense against Sweden's Ingemar Johansson at New York, June 25.

From a cash angle, it will be the most lucrative tune-up in history. London, ex-British empire champion, is guaranteed $60,000 plus trans-Atlantic expenses for three people and Patterson's purse may approximate $238,000.

AN ADVANCE SALE of $100,000 indicated a crowd of 8,000 and a gate of $120,000 for the first world title fight of any kind ever held in Indiana. The TV-radio fee is an additional $175,000.

The bout will be televised and broadcast nationally at 7 p.m. p.m., by the National Broadcasting Co., with a TV blackout on a 75-mile radius for the Indianapolis area.

From the professional angle, Patterson is not only risking his title, but he's chancing an injury — a face cut or a fracture that might cause postponement or cancellation of his June classic with European champion Johansson.

IN HIS INDIANAPOLIS sparring sessions, big, black-haired Brian displayed a rough-house aggressiveness that menaced his mates not only with his fists but with his head and elbows. Although London's elongated chin is an inviting target, his street-brawler style could make him the wrong opponent for a champion who hopes to emerge without face wounds or broken hands.

Manager Gus D'Amato and trainer Dan Florio will be seating hailstones tonight during 24-year-old Floyd's fourth defense of the crown.

Calumet Move Raises Field in Derby to 18

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — All Derby Town puzzled today over Calumet Farm's reentry into the Kentucky Derby but the professional horsemen on the backstretch were more concerned with the size of the field.

"If On-And-On starts, I'll bet him," was heard over and over throughout the city, even though trainer Jimmy Jones admitted there is a good chance his colt will not start.

Jones said he was reluctant to give up a chance to win a third straight Kentucky Derby and wanted to "buy" 48 additional hours in which to reach a decision.

Why, after saying the colt "wasn't seasoned enough" for the Derby, did he change his mind?

"I didn't like his workout the other day and decided to take him out," Jones explained. "Then I saw the complete workout and nobody had a good word, and when he was so frisky Thursday morning I decided to put him back in."

The entry of On-And-On raised the field to 18 starters and many trainers worried about his size.

"You have to worry about it," said J. H. (Casey) Hayes who trains the favored First Landing for Christopher T. Chenery. "My horse has enough speed to stay out of any trouble at the start but some of the others don't. You don't knock another man's horse but we both know the one you are talking about when you bring up some pretty rough characters in it."

One of the "rough characters" is Open View who can wander all over a race track.

Atoll, running mate for Open View in the 85th Kentucky Derby and one who very easily could go to the front at the start, has no lily-white record either.

Tony Lee, second choice in the second richest of all Derbies, had a habit of going wide on the turns as a juvenile. Our Dad is another "bad actor."

Southland to Pace School Building

Approximately one-eighth of all school buildings constructed in the nation during the next decade will be built in the fourteen southern counties of California, a forecast reported in the April issue of the Building Contractor of California, official publication of the Building Contractors Association of California, revealed.

Southland elementary and high schools and colleges and universities will all double their present enrollments during the next ten years, the article predicted.

Expansion of the school-age population will necessitate the construction of 766 elementary schools, 94 junior high schools and 137 high schools in Los Angeles county alone if projection of population trends are realized.

Gardening in the Desert

This week would be almost the last time to plant melon seeds for this year. The Amateur Gardener, if he cherished the idea of growing his own melons, should have little difficulty in producing them. When June has gone by his melons should become food and drink.

Seeds for all kinds of melons are obtainable in local nurseries. We have had excellent results with watermelons, casaba, persian, cantaloupe and musk melons. The seeds are planted in mounds of prepared soil formed to about 18 inches above the surrounding soil and about four to five feet in diameter. Seeds should be planted about three inches into the mound, six to each mound.

WHEN AND IF the growth becomes too crowded it would be wise to eliminate two or three of the lesser progressive plants. Care should be taken that the soil is kept progressively damp but not soggy.

It would be wise to pave the individual mound 9 to 12 feet apart so the ground cover, which will become widely spread, does not tangle with its neighbor. After the first six weeks a tobacco canful of steer manure should be added to each mound and then monthly thereafter.

OUR FIRST EXPERIMENT with melons here was by no means a success; the desert breed of kangaroo rats enjoyed most of the melons with the exception of the watermelons. They were adept in timing the moment of ripeness and took advantage of it. Since that unfortunate year the building of more homes and the thickening of the population has eliminated those playful pests or at least made them find other feeding grounds. We found the mass of leaves forming an excellent ground cover very helpful in holding down the sand in a blow.

WE HAVE ALSO HAD good results with Hollyhocks, a perennial of the mallow family which was originally a native of India. Seeds for these may also be bought at local nurseries. These would probably be the last seeds you would buy; each slim tree, when drying up after the season's bloom, provides hundreds of seeds for next year's growth. Growing of the first hollyhocks calls for much patience as the seeds are slow in germination.

However, after the seeds are collected from this year's dying growth, the spindly trunk should be cut back to about three inches above soil, the dried up low offshoots should be removed, the trench evened out and the new, dried seeds, of which you'll have far too many, lightly sprinkled along the trench and covered with about half inch of soil.

HOLLYHOCKS RUN from a pinkish white, through the many shades of pink to deep red. We have had them grow to four feet above a six foot fence. They are sun lovers and grow best against a high fence or wall where they don't get to had a beating from the winds.

Ocotillo is becoming more and more prevalent, especially in the lawns of new houses where, instead of grass, the lawns are a mass of white or colored broken gravel. Often mislabeled Cactus, the Ocotillo is a member of the Tamarisk family despite its spiky thorns. The growth tree, with its red, candlelike tips, is not inexpensive today; however, it can be grown from cuttings if the grower has a plentifulty of patience.

A few years ago we planted a few cuttings of Ocotillo and despite nurturing and care waited seven solid months before there was any sign of life. Today one clump shows a top growth of 12 feet and the other 10 feet. Both of them have the customary red candle at their tips but these are now fading for this year. T.G.M.

Why settle for top octane
without Boron?

Only Richfield Boron. gives you BOTH!

TWO special qualities give Richfield Boron its "years-ahead" superiority!

1. Guaranteed OVER 100 OCTANE!
2. West's ONLY Boron gasoline!

Richfield Boron has the special ability to prevent pre-ignition in high-compression engines. And every drop burns exceptionally clean to give more miles to each gallon. If you want smoother, knock-free power, YOUR BEST BUY IS BORON!

Do you use a premium gasoline? Then your car needs a premium that's OVER 100 OCTANE...and one that provides the immediate benefits of Boron.

You get BOTH only in Richfield Boron Gasoline.

Without this combination of super octane and Boron, you're just not getting the most for your gasoline dollar.

Boron is not a coined word. It's the name of a real atomic element. Already, high-energy Boron fuels for jets, missiles and rockets, have shown remarkable results.

Inside your car's engine, the patented Boron formula in refining Richfield Boron Gasoline provides exceptional combustion control. There's no knocking. You get more power...smoother power...with your very first tankful!

CLEANER GASOLINE FOR EXTRA MILEAGE

And you won't find the equal of Richfield Boron Gasoline in accomplishing the clean, deposit-free burning of motor fuel. Every drop burns cleanly, completely, to give you more miles to each gallon.

That's why we say, if you use premium gasoline, YOUR BEST BUY IS BORON!

A GREAT GASOLINE FOR EVERY CAR

Perhaps your car doesn't need a premium fuel like Boron. In that case, your car will operate with greatest economy on improved Richfield Hi-Octane Regular - a thrifty, modern motor fuel.

One of these two great gasolines - Richfield Boron or Richfield Hi-Octane Regular - meets the requirements of any make or model car...assures you the ultimate in driving pleasure and economy.

Around Town

with Hildy Crawford
Phone FA 5-5005

You might classify Palm Springs itself . . . as a Tall Tale . . . Certainly those first brave souls swathed in dusters and hats tied on with scarve . . . who jounced across the desert sand in creaking wagons . . . would have looked askance at a description of today's Village that glitters in the sun and glows under the neons . . . Some people still don't seem to realize that Riverside County's wealth lies out on the desert . . . and the prophet who looks ahead to forecast the future . . . finds his prophecies labeled as Tall Tales . . . It's interesting because "Tall Tales and True" is the theme for the 1960 Tournament of Roses parade . . .

If you have four pamphlets scattered about your living room and patio . . . and are conferring with the Olmans about summer vacation plans . . . or buying your summer wardrobe . . . or studying the map . . . you may think it a little foresighted to plan for next New Years . . . but actually Palm Springs must get in its entry for the parade by the middle of May . . .

Last year's float . . . Palm Springs first . . . was such a beauty and so wonderfully successful publicity-wise . . . that it is to be hoped some dedicated persons will pick up the rose and run with it . . . Either we are a resort town with our economy based on need for publicity . . . or we're not . . . If we are . . . and you KNOW we are . . . then Palm Springs needs representation in this pictorial event on which the eyes of the world are focused each New Years Day . . .

Anita Haskell Jones brought back the latest word on women's hats . . . as she found them in the mountainous country of Sonora, Mexico . . . when she went on an off-the-trail story-hunting expedition headed by author Erle Stanley Gardner (father of Perry Mason) . . .

Anita says she found the women wearing colorful skirts and simple blouses . . . and hats just like our Palm Springs hats . . . except without any decorations . . .

If she ever goes that way again she plans to take flowers and ribbons with her and introduce the mountain country to the Palm Springs hat . . .

There were two trucks and a jeep in the caravan . . . which went up into the heart of the Sierra Madres . . . They found road's end . . . and followed an old Spanish mule trail carved out of the limestone . . . camping out under the pine trees . . . They visited caves where they found mummies (petrified by the dry mountain air) . . . and searched for the lost gold mine of Tayopa . . .

All this . . . and they were only away for a fortnight . . . just like a summer vacation period . . . They took lots of pictures, of course, and you may be reading some of this as background in an Erle Stanley Gardner "Case of the Mummy in the Cave" or "Case of the Golden Ghoul" or some thing . . . for Uncle Erle's stories always come by the case . . .

Saw Millie Bollman at the Dunes the other evening . . . and said farewell to her . . . She's leaving this weekend . . . flying back to McHenry, Illinois for the summer months . . . She said she plans to return in November . . . but may take off again in December for an around the world cruise . . .

Dining at The Dunes the same night . . . Frank Sinatra who hasn't been around town much this winter . . . In a gay mood . . . he was with a few friends . . .

Peg and Norm Waters have the around - the - world - cruise bug too . . . but expect to start out in November . . . Helen and Bill Reichel's plans for a leisurely cruise to the Orient will find them boarding ship in September . . . and they will be gone three months . . .

Saying goodbye to Joan Bering who took off for Chicago today . . . inspired Edna Rothbart to hostess a small dinner party at the Ranch Club Wednesday night . . . Escorting the two were Bob Tallaferra and Manuel Alvarez . . .

Joan had such fun at the Ranch Club's Mardi Gras this winter . . . that she said she is planning to import the Calypso Mac group to Chicago for a party this summer . . .

The last week in May will find a group of Palm Springers walking through Anatole Robbins Golden Door at Escondido . . . for a week at this popular new West Coast establishment . . . Diet, exercise and beauty treatments in the luxury manner combine to make the Golden Door a happy experience according to those who went earlier this winter . . . including Virginia Farrell, Janice Doud, Carolyn Morris and Velma Silverman . . . Velma is also in the group that will be going down in May . . . Others include Veva Selig, Louise Steinberg, Zephyr Karahadian . . . Betty Viator, Barbara Adelman . . . and others . . .

Mashed potatoes will look like whipped cream if hot milk is added before mashing.

A PALM SPRINGS HAT and a box of dates were in their luggage, when the Leonard R. Haywards of Sanair boarded the train at San Bernardino yesterday bound for Minneapolis where they will attend the 63rd Annual Supreme Shrine Session Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem. The dates, compliments of Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce will be placed in the "Loot Bag" at the California Breakfast, and Blanche Hayward, who is Worthy High Priestess of the Ramona Shrine in Benning, will present the Palm Springs hat to the Supreme Worthy High Priestess, to be elected during this session. Members from all over the United States and Canada will be in attendance. (Desert Sun Photo)

Dear Abby...

...by Abigail VanBuren

NEW PRESIDENT of the Palm Springs Teachers Association is Hal Bentley, Junior High School teacher, who is being congratulated by Schools Supt. Dr. Dwight Twist. Pictured above, center, is Chet McCarthy, high school teacher and outgoing president. The annual election was held at Cielo Vista School. (Desert Sun Photo)

DEAR ABBY: Our family often gets together and plays a friendly game of poker. We play for a few cents just to make it interesting but nobody wins or loses enough to make any difference. My husband noticed that our daughter-in-law cheats. When she gets the cards she deals off the bottom to herself and wins the pot. I watched her and saw it myself. We are heartsick because we never thought she was that kind of a girl. Should we mention it to our son, or let it go? It's hard for me to look her in the face.

DISAPPOINTED: Don't mention it to her husband, but DO mention it to the girl. Tell her what you've observed. Re-shuffle the deck and give her a chance at a new deal.

DEAR ABBY: I certainly didn't agree with your remarks regarding children answering the telephone. I have six children whose ages range from ten months to nine years and there are times when the telephone rings and I have my hands in dishwater or am bathing the baby and can't answer it myself. So what's wrong with letting one of the children answer it for me to find out who is calling? How else will children learn how to talk on the telephone? If people who call me do not have the patience to visit a little while with my children, they needn't bother to call me again.

BUSY MOTHER

DEAR BUSY: Children who are old enough to speak so that they can be understood and to take a message properly certainly should answer the phone. I had reference to little ones who pick up the receiver and say, "WHO IS THIS?" eight or ten times. There are toy telephones for youngsters who wish to play.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for the letter concerning children answering the telephone. I am a telephone operator and know the time and money that's wasted every day by this foolishness. Can you imagine someone calling clear across the country station to station for a three minute call to get little curly-head on the other end with a "goo-goo" or a "da-da!" Half the 3 minutes is wasted trying to get the silly mother on the phone. Mothers should answer the telephone themselves to see who's calling and if it's "Da Da" or "Ha Ha" calling, hand the phone to the kid and let him teeth on it. Gee! TELEPHONE OPERATOR

DEAR ABBY: I recently read the story of a brutal murder of a child who was "selling" something for a good cause. I think it is morally wrong to encourage children to approach strangers to buy cookies, candy, tickets, etc. Too many of our tots are molested even in the better neighborhoods. All kids are eager to gain recognition for their troop or school and will ring doorbells and enter buildings in happy anticipation of a sale. Fear is unknown to them. When my girls were Scouts I sold the boxes of cookies they lugged home. Maybe I spoiled their fun but I breathed easier. (I also gained a reputation from my good neighbors, co-workers and relatives as a "merchant pest.") I no longer buy anything from a child because I believe that I am helping to put an end to this dangerous exploitation of our children. Thanks for listening.

MRS. A. M.

Village Featured In This Week's Cosmopolitan

A six-page, illustrated feature describing Palm Springs—"Paradise In the Desert"—appears in the May issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, which went on sale here this week.

The story, written by Cosmopolitan Contributing Editor Richard Gelman details in capsule form the history of the Village as well as shedding some colorful light on such local heroes as "Auntie Pearl" McManus, Charles Farrell, Mayor Frank Bogert, Zaddie Barker and some of the other Palm Springs favorites.

GERMAN GOES into interesting details on some of the businesses owned by storied "residents" of Palm Springs and talks about such warring tribes as the Thunderbird Tribe and the Tamarisk Tribe battling with the Raquet Club Tribe and the Tennis Club Tribe with "clubs and rackets and bottles of twelve-year-old Scotch." The fight the author appears to be describing is one waged over the respective merits of golf and tennis.

SOME IDEA OF the cost of vacationing here is shown by the author who relates that while his accommodations were valued at $40 per day, "there are other places to be rented at prices that scale all the way down to eight and ten dollars per day."

The article is profusely illustrated with a series of excellent photographs taken by Lou Jacobs, Jr.

'King David' to Be Given in Redlands
